It is a wonderful and heartfelt conclusion to Renee Ericsons These Days series. I cannot express how much I anticipated for this book to finally being released, and it was well worth the wait! Even thinking about it brings a smile to my face, along with damp eyes of happiness all over again Epic! We first met Ruby and Brent as teenagers, slowly falling for one another, experiencing young and innocent first love with all their hopes and dreams of a happily ever after. And then a tragedy strikes, tearing them apart. It takes several long and lonely years for them to find each other again. All grown up now, they live different lives, but never feel entirely complete. When fate brings them back together after five years in book #1.5 FORGOTTEN YESTERDAY, you can still feel their love for one another radiating. It was always there. Even after years and miles and miles apart it never wavered, never faltered. Fortunately this book directly begins where the novella ended: With Ruby and Brent deciding on taking a leap of faith and not wasting the precious second chance they were given. The healing process is not an easy one, spiked with struggles and misunderstandings along the way. Can they finally overcome their past, rebuild their love and build a future back together? Because one thing is for certain: Only together they can find happiness, two soul mates only together being whole. A story of deep and pure love, but also a story about loss and forgiveness. Beautiful and sweet. Raw and emotional. A one-of-a-kind series, molting from sweet YA to steamy NA! It feels real with characters that are easily to connect with. You can feel their love, their passion, their pain and their happiness. Brent and Ruby are one of the very few couples that really stole my heart and won't let it go for a long time. So, whatever it is that Renee is going to release next I know I will be reading it! If you haven't started with this series yet, I highly recommend doing it! [Oh, one personal side note. With Germany winning the world soccer cup a month ago and me being German, I really had to giggle reading about Brent's soccer games!!]
