Author: Anna Lowe Reviewer: (Ingrid) Stephanie Jordan #Paranormal #WolfShifters #Vampires Goodness I love this series, we go back to Twin Moon Ranch with Ty and Lana let's not forget Tana. Of course we've got the cranky old Alpha that brow beats everyone because he's the Alpha, problem is it's the old ways he wants nothing new, Ty's waiting for him to retire until then his word is law. Heather Luth was running for her life she's been running from her home in Pittsburgh, going west for several states now, she had to keep running she didn't know if they were following her, those monsters try to kill her, you're not going to believe what she saw in fact if she told anybody they probably put her in an insane asylum. In Arizona she kept thinking maybe I can stop here she was exhausted and her poor little dusty orange VW, Heather stopped in a little town. Now she needed a job, where was she going to get a teaching job in the middle of nowhere? Cody Hawthorne kept looking at her she was human he was a wolfshifter no way would his Pack and his father the Alpha except her. Then the Alpha sent Cody with Kyle to check out some killing that happened. They both went to the coroner to see the body, trying to see if they could find something, if they can smell something, if there was any kind of clue of who is doing these killings. The body had many knife wounds, and then they smelled it and they knew what it was there was, there was more than one there were several. I was gifted this ARC for an honest and truthful review 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A slow burning flame and flash fire love. Von Jean Smith I wasnt sure what to expect from the pack Lothario. I mean everything weve seen from Cody so far says hes got a devil may care, love em and leave em attitude. Hes never too serious and never too far from getting his groove on with everything in a skirt. But what if the pack Lothario is tired of the facade hes built? What if he just wants people to take him serious and see the real him underneath the facade? What if he wants the promise of a fated mate like his brother Ty has found? But fate isnt being nice when she dishes up temptation in the very human, Heather. Shes temptation personified and totally forbidden. Shes also running scared and wary of all of his advances. Ms. Heather is going to take a bit of wooing. Something hell have to fit in around his search for a serial killer one that all indications say might be a vampire. Hell also have to keep his wooing out of the limelight after all mating a human is forbidden and there is no way his father is going to accept his choice in a mate. Heather is on the run. A night out on the town with her girlfriend Cathy ended in tragedy. Cathy is dead and Heather is running from the very real threat of vampires. Having just barely escaped her first encounter, Heather is staying one step ahead of the pursuing vampires. At the end of her finances and needing to recoup a bit, she stops in a small town in Arizona and takes a teaching job out at the Twin Moons Ranch. After her very harrowing experience shes just a bit wary of all men but there is just something about Cody that calls to her. And while at first you might suspect that Heather is a bit timid nothing could be further from the truth. This is one woman that might have to come to terms with the very real threat shes been dealing with, but she will come out swinging when pushed against the wall. Heaven help you if this gal has a hockey stick in hand. I totally loved watching the transformation in Cody. Heathers insights from teaching help her to see the man beneath the facade. While the wooing might be creating a slow burn, the tension definitely ignites into a flash fire when these two finally come together. Desert Blood has become my favorite so far. Not sure if thats due to the vampire threat, serial killer angle or the reformation of a bad boy, but the combination is a total winner. Reviewed for Xtreme-Delusions**
