I had chatted with her on the internet and found out that she is also a Terry Prachett fan, so as I had a couple of her books in my TBR mountain, I decided to get cracking and read one!This was a great book, full of historical detail, great characters and a stirring story.The story is as follows: Madeleine de la Haute Vironge must wed one of three lords offered by King William. She was raised in a convent....and of the three, she finds herself in the arms of the most dangerous of the three. Aimery de Gaillard is prowling the forests as the Golden Hart, devoted to helping the common English folk, but Madeline, to whom he is honor bound to marry, suspects his secret and it could threaten his cause and his life! But he is falling in love with

Madeline, who has ignited a passion within him.....can he let love rule his life now?After reading this book, I am certainly looking forward to read more of Jo Beverly's work.
