Fulfilling The VowVon Luv2Read"The Vow", another of Linda Lael Miller's great works. When Annabel returns to her home in Parable, Nevada, the sparks fly between Annabel and her husband, Gabe McKeige. Both are too stubborn to admit that although they lost a beloved child years before, their love for each other did not die. After unsuccessfully trying to deny their feelings, eventually the passion erupts, the fire is rekindled, and the promises made long ago are once again being fulfilled in "The Vow." I love Ms. Miller's books and each gets better than the last. Read "The Vow" and I promise you will not be disappointed. 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Linda Lael Miller triumphs again with The Vow. Von Donna Davis (lupis@goodnet.com) The Vow is set in Nevada, 1878. It's main characters, Annibel and Gabe Mckeige and their son Nicholas have had an unusual and intriguing past which gives the book it's uniqueness. Annibel, following the death of their daughter Susannah, was inconsolable and Gabe and she could not seem to comfort each other. As with many couples facing the death of a child, they drew apart rather than closer together. Annabel ran to her elderly aunt in Boston, fully expecting Gabe to come after her. When it was clear he would not, she set out for England where her family was from. The book actually begins when she returns to Parable, Nevada with a startling request for her husband (at least in those days). That's when all the sparks and fun begin, and they don't end until the conclusion of the book. Linda Lael Miller has written so many books that I love and will keep forever that the list would be endless here, but The Vow is now there on the shelf. I hope you will order a copy and see for yourself how much she can make you laugh and cry and see the reality of life in this book. I think I'll re-read it tomorrow! 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Miller at her most eloquent Von Ein Kunde A dozen years have passed since Annabel Mckeige's dad died and, unable to cope with her grief, she deserted her spouse Gabe and her seven year old son Nicholas. Over the subsequent years, Annabel continued to correspond with her child. However, she has finally returned to her hometown of Parable, Nebraska. Neither Nicholas or Gabe have any intention of falling in with her plans. Her son cannot forgive her and her spouse refuses to allow the woman he still loves leave him again. Before the battling adults can declare all out war on each other, their son gets in deep trouble with the law. They agree to put aside their differences while trying to help the boy they both love. THE VOW is a beautiful tale of love lost and regained, while demonstrating that this is the strongest, most enduring emotion humans can hope to experience. As seen through the eyes of the three Mckeiges, the talented Linda Lael Miller provides a magical western romance that is a relationship drama that would be a masterpiece in any era.
