Her best work yet-Plenty of suspense and humorVon Ein KundeThree years have passed since Collin died from a brain aneurysm, but his widow Lucy Blacker Swift and their children feel as if that was a lifetime ago. They left DC to live in a Vermont farmhouse where she runs a travel business for those seeking an adventurous vacation. The move has allowed Blacker to stay outside the "Beltway" influence of her father-in-law, a US senator. When someone begins to stalk Lucy, she rejects turning to her in-law for aid. Instead, heeding Collin's advice, she heads to Wyoming where Sebastian Redwing, an expert on security lives. Sebastian is burned out from his years of performing international investigations and security. However, he follows the only woman he ever loved back to New England to keep her and her children safe from a cold blooded killer with lethal intentions. Carla Neggers puts the emphasis on suspense with romance playing a secondary role, a change that will remind readers of the works of Sandra Brown but using Ms. Negger's personal writing style. The excellent characters are fully developed including the children. Readers will feel the emotional turmoil of the thirteen year-old girl and the impishness of her younger brother. This and the motivations behind the actions of the lead couple augment the tension filled story line that grips the audience from start to finish. The wonderfully wry THE WATERFALL is going to be watershed mark in the rising and expanding career of the talented Ms. Neggers.

Sebastian was supposed to have been "in love w/ Lucy since her wedding day to his friend 20 years before." How do we know this? Does Sebastian have flashbacks of their quality times together? Ruminates over the family outings he joined, all the while longing for his friend's wife? No, never. Sebastian has maintained this "love" for 20 years from one single glimpse of Lucy on her wedding day ... and they barely even spoke then! Supposedly, he never visited his friend because he couldn't handle seeing Lucy. We are simply TOLD that he's loved her; we are given no reasons why. Then there's the matter of how Sebastian is supposed to be "superspy guy," and yet almost every character, except Lucy, knows that "he's been in love w/ Lucy for 20 years." No, they don't have "quality time" flashbacks either. I believe in "love at first sight" to a point ... do I believe in maintaining a "true love" feeling for TWENTY YEARS w/ someone I've only met once? No way. And that thing of Sebastian hiding behind the couch during the showdown ... seriously uncool! :-)
