Von Jean Maxwell : The Witch Doctor (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Witch Doctor (English Edition):

Kundenrezensionen Hilfreichste Kundenrezensionen 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. nice but too much explicit descriptions of sex - 2 and 1/2 stars Von Val Actually the book isn't bad, except that it seems sometimes written for desperate housewives....it starts with a clear description of sex, which would not be that bad..except that we do not need explicitly read letter by letter how the genitals change or a literary description of an amplex...anyway...the plot is nice, written easily reading.2 and 1/2 stars0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Bezaubernd...Von havelmikeSehr amasant geschrieben, ungewöhnlicher Ansatz und eine prickelnde erotische Konstellation. Das Ganze mit einer durchaus spannenden Handlung verbunden - empfehlenswert!0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Couldn't stand it.Von SchnaufiaWow, what a terrible story. Sorry, I hated it. Made no sense to me, and thought the plot was a bit dull.

She believes she came out of the womb with a pencil in hand and began drawing at a very early age. A graduate of both the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology in Engineering Design and Grant MacEwan Design Arts program, she switched from draftsman to graphic artist in her early career. But the muses would not keep silent, and eventually coerced her to write her first romantic suspense novel, El Mirador. Jean went on to write its sequel, El Precio, followed by the anthology short story The Last Hallow's Eve, (now available in print) and Indecent Proposal, the first installment in her new 'Workplace Gone Wild' series. Recently released is The Terminatrix, part of the Executive Assistant anthology. The Witch Doctor is Jean's first independently published full-length title. Jean lives in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada and works as a Communications Specialist for an energy services firm. She teaches night classes in desktop publishing and pursues freelance graphic design work in addition to playing clarinet with the Cosmopolitan Music Society and the New Edmonton Wind Sinfonia.
